A most unusual will has been filed in Ohio county, according to Arbie B. Creighton, of the circuit clerk's office, who sent the Newsteller a copy, with names omitted.

It is reproduced in full as follows:

REBINDING OLD, VALUABLE RECORDS

The Mason County Court, through its very conscientious clerk, John R. Aten, and his chief deputy, Mrs. Nellie M. Aten, authorized the rebinding and restoring of the Births and Deaths Records of Mason county from 1850 up to 1900. These records were badly in need of repair, having gone through several floods.

"Uncle John," as he is affectionately known throughout Mason county, has served the people long and well and deserves much credit for his untiring efforts in the preservation of these very valuable records.

"VOTE-GARD" BUYS

Other counties, besides Monongalia (see elsewhere this issue) which have purchased Vote-Gard ballot boxes and booths to take care of additional precincts are listed as follows:

- Harrison county, 100 booths and 100 ballot boxes;
- Hancock county, 72 booths and 24 ballot boxes;
- Kanawha county, 150 booths and 114 ballot boxes.
- Marshall county, 70 booths and 12 ballot boxes.

Sheriff's Son Marries

Olive Thorn and Ralph Dye of Elizabeth were married Sept. 17. Mr. Dye is a son of Sheriff and Mrs. G. A. Dye, Jr., of Wirt county. He is principal of the elementary school at Munday.

Roane Assessor Has the Figures

Nearly 16,000 Head of Cattle Reported in County

Jason Taylor, assessor of Roane county, has the facts and figures on the number of horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, autos, farms, etc., for his county.

So many people have asked him about it that he has prepared a table showing the exact number by districts. Because the district breakdown would be of no interest to anyone but Roane countians, we present his county figures as follows:

Horses .....	2,510
Cattle .....	15,869
Sheep .....	6,392
Hogs .....	1,795
Autos, Trucks .....	1,739
Farms .....	3,950
Acres per farm .....	97
Total Acres .....	379,000
Dogs .....	893

"In referring to farms," Mr. Taylor explained, "we mean those from three acres up to 1,300 acres. Those of one acre or less are not considered as true farms.

Guilty?

Otto Simon, assessor of Barbour county, sends us a copy of a warrant issued in August, 1941, before Justice of the peace Luke Boyles, of Philippi district.

For obvious reasons, names of the parties are omitted.

The warrant charges:

"State of West Virginia, County of Barbour, to-wit: To any sheriff or constable of Philippi district in said county: The sheriff or any deputy sheriff of said county, or any member of the Department of Public Safety: Whereas _____ this day made complaint and information on oath before me, Luke Boyles, a justice of the peace of Philippi district in said county, that _____ did commit a misdemeanor in this that he, the said _____ on the _____ day of August, 1941, in the said county did unlawfully assault her, the said _____, by putting his hands under her clothes in an indecent manner and did then and there disturb her personal belongings not his own."

Clerk's Daughter Marries

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Lorna G. Cutright, daughter of County Clerk and Mrs. Allen B. Cutright of Upshur county, to Darius D. Moreland, of Buckhannon route 4.

The ceremony was performed June 29 in the First Methodist church of Clarksburg. The couple is residing at Lorain, Ohio, where Mr. Moreland is employed.

Jim Bleigh, county clerk of Lewis county, was a recent visitor in Clarksburg, having been summonsed there in connection with court matters.

Oral Fulks, sheriff of Lewis county, has completed his tax tickets in record time and was ready several days prior to Oct. 1 to collect taxes in case anyone desired to pay.

Three Peaches from Wetzel

The NewsTeller welcomes this photograph of three employees of Wetzel county, standing on the front steps of the court house at New Martinsville.

They are, reading left to right, Virginia Bushon, deputy sheriff; Martha Allen, stenographer in the Wetzel county clerk's office; and Pearl Frei, also of the clerk's office.

Thanks, Miss Allen, for sending in this picture.

HISTORY OF TAYLOR COUNTY

(By Charles Brinkman, Official Historian of Taylor County.)

The agitation for a new county in Western Virginia was begun in 1843 by Edward J. Armstrong, a prominent citizen of Williamsport (Pruntytown) and a member of the Virginia Legislature from Harrison County. He conceived the idea of a new county embracing parts of Barbour, Harrison and Monongalia counties lying on both sides of the Tygart Valley River with Williamsport as the county seat.

He had the late Attorney Leonidas Johnson prepare a new petition describing the boundaries of the proposed new county which was signed by every landlord within the proposed boundaries, who were most glad to save themselves the long journeys to the seats of the courts at Clarksburg, Morgantown and Philippi.

Mr. Armstrong took the petition with him to the Virginia Assembly and had the Act creating the new county in Western Virginia passed on Friday, January 19th, 1844. The act establishing the new county required the appointment of 15 Gentlemen Justices who were instructed to meet at the home of Abraham Smith in the town of Williamsport on Thursday, April 18th, 1844, and adjourn to some convenient place to begin the work of organizing the new county.

In accordance with their instructions they met at the home of Abraham Smith at Williamsport in the County of Harrison in Virginia and immediately adjourned to meet in the Methodist Episcopal Church to begin the task of organizing the new county. William A. Rogers, being the oldest justice, was chosen to preside over the deliberations, and he moved that before beginning this momentous work they bow the knee and ask divine guidance to aid them in doing what was best for the new county and its people.

Williamsport was at that time the largest town within the confines of the new county and naturally the seat of the courts was located there. It is said that

John Prunty who owned all the land on which the town of Williamsport was built was the only one who opposed the formation of the new county, who said: "It was so damn small he could stand on one edge and spit across it." To appease him the name of Williamsport was changed to Pruntytown.

At a special election held on Tuesday, October 8th, 1878, for the people to vote on the question of the removal of the seat of the courts from Pruntytown to Grafton the question was ratified by 1,444 votes cast in favor of removal and 801 votes cast against. The court held its first session in Grafton in Brinkman Hall in November, 1878. The property of Mrs. Mary Boland was purchased for a site on which to erect the Court House which was immediately begun and completed in the fall of 1880. The historic old jail at Pruntytown was used to confine the violators of the law until the new jail in the basement of the Court House was ready for occupancy. At the outbreak of the Civil War the slave owners of Taylor county had their human chattel confined in the old jail to keep them from running off and seeking refuge behind the Union lines. This was reported to President Lincoln who immediately issued an order to the military commander at Grafton to proceed to Pruntytown and liberate all slaves, men, women and children confined in the Taylor county jail. On November 24, 1862, the first slaves in the United States were freed from the old jail, six weeks prior to the issuance of the Emancipation Proclamation.

The county was enlarged on February 20th, 1856, by including a small portion of Marion County north of and adjoining the county of Taylor south and east of a straight line, at the mouth of Samuel Henderson's lane and running to the residence of Jeremiah Neel to include his holdings in the new county.

ting these figures as nearly correct as possible but, of course, we have made some mistakes. When it comes to entering up the oil and gas royalty, it appears to be a jig-saw puzzle.

"I have enjoyed my first year as assessor and expect to enjoy it more during the coming three years," Mr. Taylor concluded.

Re-Indexing

The very efficient county clerk of Jackson county, Don Ferguson, has completed his Permaflex Index to deeds. The Bar Association together with county officials were so well pleased with the work and with the completed job that they have made application for a project which will, when finished, completely reindex all of Jackson county's remaining records.

To Have Display

Casto & Harris will have a display at the State Educational Association and we hope all our friends will drop around to see us.

Enjoys Visit

It was a real treat for a representative of Casto & Harris to visit the county court of Monongalia county. These three affable gentlemen are always on the job in the interest of their county. Colonel J. F. Loving is always ready to declare a recess to tell a good story which is thoroughly enjoyed by the other two members of the court and any visitors who might be present.

Colonel Loving is president of the West Virginia County Courts Association. He informed the NewsTeller unofficially, however, that the county courts would hold their regular yearly business meeting in conjunction with the Assessors' meeting, which will be held in Charleston the latter part of November.

Knight Recovers

A. Leeman Knight, assessor of Harrison county, after an extended illness, is able to be at his office in a supervisory capacity each day now. The NewsTeller as well as many friends throughout the state are glad to hear that Mr. Knight is well on the road to recovery.

Corder Improving

Waitman D. Corder, clerk of the Barbour county court, is recovering from a serious operation performed in August. He is now able to be at work and his many friends over the state hope for his speedy and complete recovery.

George H. Allemong, Berkeley circuit clerk, was slightly injured early in August in an automobile accident. He recovered nicely, however, and is back on the job.

Father Dies

Dr. Giles G. Sydnor, father of Henry M. Sydnor, Jefferson county superintendent of schools, died Sept. 26 after a brief illness.

SUMMERS CLERK

DIES SEPT. 26

Circuit Clerk G. J. Hughes, 70, who had attended every court term since his election 22 years ago until he became ill several weeks ago, died Sept. 26 at his home.

Hughes had held public office continuously since becoming justice of the peace in 1907.

A FIEND AWAKES

While strolling 'mong the trees one day
I cast a match beside the way;
There was no thought of doing wrong,
Just dropped a match and passed along.

I had to smoke a cigarette;
Would smoke it, even on a bet;
No thought had I, if tinder lay
Close where I threw a match that day.

I topped a hill, and then looked back,
Saw smoke ascending close my track;
That match had found a leafy bed,
Became a flame that fast had spread.

Too late, I saw what I had done,
As flames leaped high toward the sun,
I love the trees! I love them all!
It pained my heart to see them fall.

My head was bended low in shame,
As from that fire this message came:
"Cigarettes are smoked by fiends like me,
But only God can make a tree."
Luke McDowell,
Chief Clerk Mineral
County Board of Education.

In Florida

Mrs. Evelyn Yorke, circuit clerk of Monongalia county, has been spending the past month in Florida. She is expected home about the first of October.

Taylor's First Court House

(Information furnished by Charles Brinkman, official historian of Taylor County)

On June 27, 1846, William Prim was awarded the contract for building Taylor county's first Court House, shown above, which was erected at Pruntytown. This beautiful old colonial structure was used from 1849 to 1878, when agitation was started to move the county seat to Grafton.

The picture shown above was taken after the move had been made and after the Industrial School had been established at Pruntytown. Shown on the porch are the superintendent and several of the boys (in uniform) who were inmates of the school at that time.

Delayed Honeymoon

D. E. Wedge, president of the county court of Mason county, has been enjoying a long delayed honeymoon. President Wedge has returned to his duties on the farm and for the county court.

Move to Town

County Clerk and Mrs. A. R. Martin of Monongalia county have moved from their country home to a residence in Morgantown for the winter months.

Married

Miss Vera Jones, daughter of Circuit Clerk and Mrs. Vernon Jones of Mason county, was married in July to Stephen Noble, of Camp Conley. The bridegroom is employed at the Farm Cooperative Bureau store.

New Voting Equipment

Albert R. Martin, county clerk, together with the county court of Monongalia county, purchased 60 Vote-Gard voting booths and 24 Vote-Gard ballot boxes to take care of new precincts which have been added in their county.
